

Q & A's

What if an individual is unable to afford kennel services?

P.A.W.S is working at establishing relationships with local kennels where at risk or homeless individuals may receive a reduced rate to kennel their companion animal until they are back in stable housing.

Many kennels require up-to-date vaccines. What if the companion animal is not vaccinated?

Non vaccinated companion animal will be vaccinated by a local veterinarian and then transported to one of our partnering kennels.

How can an individual access P.A.W.S?

Referrals must be made through shelter and community support workers to the P.A.W.S Coordinator at the Housing Help Centre, - Hamilton & Area 905-526-8100 Extension 210

Mission

Hamilton P.A.W.S is a community collaboration that works together to address gaps in service and find practical solutions to people and animal welfare issues. P.A.W.S addresses the needs of low income and vulnerable people with pet companions who are homeless, marginally housed, incarcerated, hospitalized or experiencing violence and currently in need of emergency accommodations and/or health care for their animal companions.

Our Experience

The current system does not help at risk or homeless individuals retain their pets. The shelter system does not accept individuals with a pet companion. There are no resources to provide temporary kenneling while people get back on their feet. The current fostering and animal welfare organizations require people to permanently surrender animals or pay for temporary and limited kenneling which in most cases they cannot afford. Most of our clients are responsible pet owners who need temporary help during a crisis.
